ened With Gun

Two unarmed bandits drove up in front of the Winfield and Pike jewelry store, West Lincoln Way, next to the grand theater in Lisbon, at 6:45 a. m. today, smashed plate glass display window and looted up $600 worth of jewelry and made their escape.

The loot included diamonds, rings, watches, necklaces, bracelets, etc. The men sped away after the robbery through Elkton, toward East Liverpool. The license plates on their car were smeared, police reported.

According to Mrs. Edward Mosley, who was told to "beat it" by the robber who was in the act of making the glass when she happened along, a hammer was used to smash the window.

George Sleek, a waiter in a restaurant directly across the street from the jewelry store, heard the breaking of glass and rushed to the door and was greeted with a "get back inside" yell. He complied as did Mrs. Mosley.

Lad, Returning From
Navy On Christmas,
Finds Parents Dead

(By Associated Press)
ASHLAND, Ky., Dec. 24—Clyde McCoy, 20, today, Christmas eve, was to turn back again on home, and rejoin the Navy.

Four years ago, while attending school in Pikeville, Ky.—although a resident of Oak Hill, O.—he enlisted, but did not tell his parents, because he feared they would prevent his enlistment.

He never communicated with them.

He was discharged last month, and returned, laden with Christmas presents for his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Claude McCoy. He found they had moved to Ashland.

He came here yesterday—and was told they were dead—victims of an automobile accident in 1931.

"It's the toughest thing that could happen," he said. "Tomorrow, I'm leaving here to re-enlist, and try to forget."

Mr. Claus Not Only
'Came up sometime'
—But He Moved In

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 24—Mae West is keeping in character on her Christmas cards. She had a drawing of herself sitting on Santa's lap, with this jingle:

"If Santa fails to reach your house
Just bear it with a grin.
I wrote and said 'Come up
some time'
And the dear old guy moved in."

RICHBERG AND JOHNSON CLASH

Former NRA Chief Has Hot Answer for New Deal Leader

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—A scrap between two outstanding figures of the new deal—General Hugh S. Johnson and Donald R. Richberg—moved toward a showdown today.

It flared hotly into the open over the weekend when it became known that Richberg, director of the national emergency council, had written the Saturday Evening Post a warning. He said he would hold it "legally responsible" if it published anything reflecting on his reputation in a series of articles written by Johnson which it expects to print shortly.

Johnson Loosens Up
The former NRA chief in Oklahoma, immediately accused Richberg of attempting to use his position to interfere with the freedom of the press. He loosed one of his explosive phrases. "Just a symptom of the ants of conscience in his pants," was his description of Richberg's letter.

Richberg had written The Post on Dec. 14:

"Many of the charges which General Johnson has loosely made in private conversation regarding me and my activities can be completely disproved by documentary evidence and the testimony of a large number of credible witnesses. If you take the responsibility of publishing the statements by General Johnson derogatory to me, and obviously designed as destructive of my personal and professional reputation, you must accept the full legal responsibility."

General Johnson retorted: "Donald is a high official. If he thinks there is libel in this narrative, why doesn't he stand on his legal rights in a suit for libel and not attempt to use his position to threaten the freedom of the press."

Articles Begin Early in Year
"When I was catching all the dead cats that any one had to throw I never squealed or tried to scotch them in a single case," Johnson's articles are expected to start early in the New Year. What they will say about Richberg and what Richberg will do are objects of much speculation in the capital.

Toys Distributed
To Tots On Relief

Boys and girls whose parents are on city and county relief lists are happy. It's Christmas tomorrow.

More than 500 toys, new and revamped, were distributed yesterday afternoon at the Memorial building to several hundred children following the Associated Charities party in the Elks' home.

A free motion picture show, too, was a treat for the kiddies when they were guests of the Waikiki Brothers at the Grand theater. The boys especially enjoyed the show, a western thriller, while the girls laughed at Mickey Mouse and the Three Little Pigs.

The majority of the toys were made available through a county relief workshop project in Salem and another in Leetonia. Wooden toys were manufactured in the city while at Leetonia rag dolls were produced. Approximately 500 odd toys were turned over to Mrs. Winifred Hill, city welfare director, through the efforts of Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr, who urged Salem school pupils to turn in any old toys that were of no use to them.

The cheery visage of Old Santa appears out of the smoke and once more there comes "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

And this Christmas there will be more warm hearths and hearts than in several years. Definitely, we seem to have risen from the pit of despair and to be well on the road to a time when hunger will have no place in this land of plenty.

Hands are coming out of pockets and the halls are again resounding to backslapping—the handshake is more heartfelt, and the spirit of good fellowship once more appears where it was thought it would never come again.

So, let us all look up to that face formed from the curling tendrils of stacks that were long idle. A face emotionalized by the hum of machinery and spiritualized by the happiness that rises from mouths that no longer wait in vain for food, and bodies that once more know the blessings of warmth and contentment.—A. Some Christmas Tidings

SAVANNAH, Ga.—A sea-going Santa Claus came down from the crow's nest of the United States coast guard cutter Yamacraw to distribute presents to the cutter's crew.

Instead of the traditional sleigh bells, Santa was heralded by the bursting of rockets.

SPOKANE, Wash.—A large sofa was among the Christmas gifts that passed through the express office here. It was decorated with stickers that said: "Don't open until Christmas."

PENASSE, Minn.—Only the dog team and airplane can compete with Santa Claus in reaching his first stop in the United States.

It is at Darbyshire, who live at the northeast angle, a little piece of land extending out in the lake of the woods, most of it on the Canadian border.

A fresh heavy snow has fallen, and the nearest railroad is 60 miles away.

ST. LOUIS — Unless some trucker calls for his 100-pound pig, there's a chance that some needy families may have a big Christmas dinner.

The pig, running loose in the west end of the city, was captured by three police officers after a quarter-hour chase. If the owner does not claim it, it will be killed.

Anyone dealing in tangible personal property for retail must have a license before he can purchase the new sales tax stamps. These licenses must be obtained on or before Dec. 31.

AUTO DITCHED,
CAR BURNS UP

Iowa Motorist Plunges
Into House At Foot of Albany Hill

James Cavanaugh, of 837 East Third st., escaped serious injury at 12:40 a. m. Sunday when his automobile "blew" a right front tire while Cavanaugh was traveling on route 62 near Canfield, left the road and caught fire after turning over several times.

Car Is Ditched
State highway patrolmen reported Cavanaugh lost control of his machine when the tire gave way and the car careened into a ditch.

No one was hurt when an automobile struck a house in a freak accident on route 62, four miles north of Salem at 6 p. m. Sunday.

George Kaleb, of Iowa City, Ia., misjudged an S curve and the speed of his car sent him up against the side of a house occupied by J. S. Mason. A chimney fireplace just inside the outer wall kept Kaleb's machine from plowing through the house. Damage to the house was estimated at several hundred dollars. The front end of the automobile was wrecked.

Autos Collide
An automobile driven by Howard W. Heslon, of 651 Washington ave., Salem, was struck by another in charge of Clyde P. Ross, of Detroit, when the two cars were on route 46 two miles south of Salem Saturday night and caused Ross to run into the rear of his car.

Increase of 48 Members
Over Last Year
Is Reported

A Boy Scout membership increase of 48 over last year, was reported when the executive board of the county council met recently at the office of Atty. Lodge Riddle at Lisbon, county chairman. The increase was the result of the formation of five new troops during 1934 in addition to a new Cub pack.

In advancement work a total of 108 scouts passed the second class tests and 75 the first class test. Thirty-seven were named Star scouts while 19 were awarded life honors. Nine were made Eagle scouts, the council disclosed. A total of 588 were awarded merit badges.

The council reported receipts amounting to $1,050 over the 1933 financial standing. This, too, was in addition to funds raised to purchase the McKinley home farm as a summer camp site.

A program calendar for 1935 was outlined by the council members at the meeting and Charles E. Felton was retained county scout executive for his ninth year. The date for the annual council banquet was set for Jan. 21, at Lisbon.

F. R. SPRINGER
DIES IN CRASH
NEAR DELAWARE

Midnight Express Side-
swipes Eastern Mail
At Junction

34 ARE INJURED
IN NIGHT TRAGEDY

Victim Leaves Sister In Liverpool, Cousins
In Lisbon

F. R. Springer, 49, born at Lisbon and now a resident of Cleveland, engineer of a New York Central train, died along with two of his fellow railroad workers in a crash of two trains of the same line, loaded with Christmas mail and passengers, near Delaware early Sunday.

Mr. Springer resided in Lisbon 30 years ago. His father, Union Springer, was a conductor on the same line. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Nell Hollinger, East Liverpool, and two cousins, John Vogan, of North Market st., and Mrs. Helen Blackburn, of West Washington st., Lisbon.

34 Are Injured
The train accident also caused injuries to 34 persons.

James Newman, a 55-year-old veteran railroad worker, was the pilot of the first locomotive of the double-headed Midnight Express which sideswiped the road's Eastern Mail at the junction of a cut-off in the main line 2 1/2 miles northeast of Delaware.

Newman's fireman, H. B. Barrett, 38, of Galion, was the only member of the crews of the two locomotives to escape. He suffered severe burns.

Engineer Springer and Fireman J. J. O'Malley, 42, of Cleveland, the crew of the locomotive on the Midnight were the others killed.

Hayes described wreck as one of the worst in the railroad's history. He asserted it might have been even worse had the Midnight been a fraction of a second slower, in which case it likely would have telescoped the rear end of Eastern Mail.

No Warning
Most of the passengers in the two trains were sleeping and had no warning of the crash. Both trains were running far behind schedule due to the holiday crush of travel.

The locomotives of the Midnight struck the Eastern Mail the second car from the rear, tossing a coach and an express car in different directions before burying themselves in a ditch and demolishing a signal tower. Hayes said the investigation today would seek to determine the reason Newman ran the red light. He estimated the damage caused by the wreck would approximate $50,000. The debris was

Will On Wars

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 24.—For international wars Sunday morning, we had Russia and Japan; for civil war we have Donald Richberg vs. Hugh Johnson; both wars are rather similar in that there is really a third party mixed up in 'em. Russia and Japan's argument is over Manchuria and Richberg and Johnson's is over what the Saturday Evening Post can say. Richberg says, if Johnson tells the truth about him, he has to prove it and Johnson says that he can lie about him and still prove it.

There ain't nothing that breaks up homes, country and nations like somebody publishing their memoirs.

TOBACCO FOLLOWS COTTON

The referendum of tobacco growers under terms of the Kerr-Smith bill has produced the expected results. Growers are willing to continue present restrictions on tobacco; their reasons are the same as those which caused cotton growers to vote 9 to 1 for continuance of the Bankhead act, which restricts production of cotton.

The Kerr-Smith bill provided an ad valorem tax of 33-1/3 per cent on sales of tobacco by growers. Those joining in voluntary plans of crop restriction are given tax-payment warrants for the amount of their production warrants. Growers who do not cooperate do not receive such warrants, and hence must pay the tax themselves.

Secretary Wallace in his annual report for 1934 disclosed that the tobacco crop was reduced 30 per cent and was about as far below the level of world consumption as the 1933 crop was above that level. Growers received in 1934 about $207,000,000, which was almost twice as much as they received in 1933 and not much below the average for the last 10 years.

It is plain in consideration of such figures why the referendum on the Kerr-Smith law was favorable to continuance. As Walter Lippman pointed out a few days ago, it was a vote by insiders on the question of preserving their own interests. If grocery store owners could vote on the question of preventing any increase in the number of outlets, naturally they would decide in their own favor.

This is part of the economy of scarcity which to many discerning critics represents an unsocial concession to the theory that capitalism can be saved by jacking up price structures. It has been endorsed by those who benefit from it immediately. Whether it will be given the indorsement of a nation after a reasonable period of trial is another matter. Creation of scarcity, in defiance of nature, has not been an appealing idea in a nation which has been proud of the abundance of its resources.

MICE, MAYBE

"There were only a few feeble protests," reads the story of Sen. Huey Long's seizure of despotic power in Louisiana. Otherwise, the state legislature yielded without a sign of dissent. It gave the senator school teachers, policemen and firemen for his political machine. It took away from communities the right to govern themselves. It inflicted on helpless industries punitive taxes.

For these things Sen. Long will be blamed. They will be pointed out as additional signs that he is dreaming of becoming dictator of the United States. Certainly, they prove conclusively that he has established a dictatorship in Louisiana. Naturally, in a democratic country, Sen. Long's bold seizure of rights is regarded with considerable alarm. People are wondering where he will stop.

What about the voters of Louisiana while these things are taking place? What about members of the state legislature? What about those prominent men and women who contribute to the balance of government, even though not participating in it directly? "There were only a few feeble protests." It does it mean that indignation and courage are obsolete in the state of Louisiana? Where is Sen. Long's opposition?

No individual can establish a dictatorship without the consent, either active or passive, of most of the people affected by it. For years, Americans have been hearing about the political antics of Huey Long. They have been amused and alarmed, but usually alarmed. They have been indignant. They have believed that something should be done. But nothing has been done, least of all in Louisiana, whose political problem Huey Long is. Is it possible that Louisiana may have more than its share of the mice distributed so generously among men in politics?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Diary: Roused by a phone jingle at 4 a. m. from a writer on a high-lonesome and full of megrims over the world and the progress of his novel. So lolling in a bath and minting a column before day break. Today I heard an unmuzzled police dog in the park ripped open the Roy Howards' Scottie.

A letter from Jim McIntyre, of McIntyre and Heath, living now in Brooklyn. And a bid from J. V. Connolly to an Arthur Brisbane luncheon. Also notes from Nathan Burkan, Bainbridge Colby and Elbert Hubbard II. Will Lingle came and talked of his meeting with Edith Wharton in Paris and of Galsworthy.

Dined on the venison Burt McBride sent and Earl Carroll stopped awhile. Later with my wife to the news reel, sitting near Frank Crowninshield and his brother, who roared at Mickey Mouse as much as I. So home to dress for Major Bowes' buffet for Rosa Ponsell.

Fannie Hurst, despite her voluminous literary output, probably attends as many luncheons, teas, dinner parties and first nights as any celebrity of the day. The explanation is simple. Miss Hurst began her writing career arising at 6 o'clock and working until noon. She has never abandoned the custom. Thus afternoons and evenings are free for the social rounds. She rarely remains up after 11

p. m., reads until 1 and doesn't require more than five hours sleep.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. has become a rolling stone of journalism, voyaging to Europe to flatter over the continent and back to America to commute between Reno and New York. His effusions appear chiefly in Rob Wagner's Script in Beverly Hills, which does not pay for contributions. But for a Vanderbilt that shouldn't matter. Officially, Vanderbilt is a resident of Reno and professes to like it more than any city. Although born and reared in an imposing avenue mansion, he grows sentimental about the open sky, sage brush, etc. Reminding of Fred C. Kelly seeing a man carrying an axe on a South Ferry express. "Ah," he beamed, "a woodsman from Brooklyn!"

Personal nomination for one of the screen's most patrician looking ladies—Elissa Landi.

The flop of the Deans in vaudeville several weeks ago establishes no precedent. Almost every diamond star, with the possible exception of Mike Donlin, could take the jeers of the bleachers with nonchalance, but facing a quietly restrained theater audience makes them pathetically inarticulate and awkward. Christy Mathewson, at the peak of his career, was offered perhaps top salary—$3,000 a week—for personal appearance at Hammerstein's, but sensibly turned it down.

Lisle Bell is another literary prestidigitator who keeps a half dozen jobs going at once and grows fat on his vicarious feats. His scholarly book reviews appear in a Sunday section, as do his lurid licks for a tabloid. He turns out verse for several wistful poetry magazines, bright essays of sophistication for smart weeklies here and abroad, and now and then revels in a blood and thunder serial for the pulps. His free lance versatility includes a two-year honeymoon in Europe when he lived exclusively on the rewards of bright three-line paragraphs sent, hit miss fashion, to American editorial pages. An achievement, my masters!

The newest comer to the fiction field is Louis Paul, of Jamaica, L. I., who at 32 not only wrote his first short story but sold it to Esquire, the first magazine to which it was submitted, and won the O. Henry short story reward. Not only is it a literary bull's eye never before scored but presages hope for the strugglers trying so desperately to make the grade.

Bagatelles: Greta Garbo has never visited a dentist. Edgar Poe, starving, lived on boiled dandelions for nine days. Einstein uses face soap for shaving purposes. Lowell Thomas always has a dry throat just a few moments before he makes a public speech. He is the prize pupil of Dale Carnegie. Marconi's mother is Irish.

Dawn recalls the Columbus Circle Childs. There we breakfasted in what Shaw calls "biary occultancy" and rolled away in a marauding cab in rollocking days. Bickering that flew like sparks across the room wound up in sidewalk sluggings several times a night. Then the Childs places were white, sanitized and pleasantly middle class. Now they have gone high hand-shake with Peter Arno clubman ads, Jacobean thrones, tapestries and cocktail bars in modern decor. Where battercake jugglers used to perform are stiff shirts and sable. Life or nothing is quite the same anymore.

That shrieking and hollering by the lady in another room was inspired by a letter she received from a 17-year-old high school girl who closed: "It must be fun to have a husband always so light-hearted and gay."

Someone on Cartier monogrammed stationery forwards this capsule zoo-ograph of Alexander Woolcott: "An eagle with the mumps."

For Tuesday, December 25

On this our great annual festival, the "peace on earth and good will to all" spirit of the occasion should not be allowed to be negated by trouble and distress regarding changes, family life and personal depressions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of rather unforeseen change which will have a far-reaching influence on their destinies. There may be hostility, obstructions and postponements.

A child born on this day should have many gifts and talents which should lift it far, and possibly to strange reaches from its birth, but may find it difficult to break from its inherent personal gloom and morbidity. This spirit should be taken in hand in early life and a vision of optimism substituted.

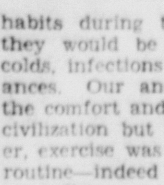

Notable nativity: Joseph M. Schenck, screen producer.

Don't Forget To Exercise In Winter Also

Everyone is agreed that to take moderate exercise in some form is a beneficial practice. During the summer months the average person indulges in more exercise than he does in winter. This is easily understood because in mild weather there are more opportunities for outdoor recreation. Lack of exercise is a hindrance to good health. I am confident that if more persons would overcome their sedentary habits during the winter months, they would be less susceptible to colds, infections and other disturbances. Our ancestors had few of the comforts and luxuries of modern civilization but despite cold weather, exercise was a part of the day's routine. Indeed it was a matter of necessity.

Dr. Copeland

Tones Up The Body

Surely it would be advantageous to each of us to be a bit more active during the winter months. I do not mean to imply that strenuous forms of exercise should be the rule. But during the cold weather it would be a good plan to take regular exercise, such as daily "setting-up" exercises. Stretching and bending, if done regularly every morning, will help to tone up the body and prepare it for the day's work.

Walking is an excellent way to exercise. It costs nothing and, of course, is within the reach of everyone. A good plan is to walk at least two miles every day. This time spent in the open air is very beneficial. Whenever possible avoid crowded street cars, busses and subways.

When walking stride along with a full swing, with head erect, chest out and stomach in. Breathe deeply of the fresh air. Of course, it is essential to be properly clad for walking in rainy or cold weather.

Don't Be a "Shut-in"

With modern conveniences, such as trains, cars, busses and automobiles, it is easy to fall into sedentary habits. Yet all of us would be better off if we occasionally shunned these conveyances and resorted to walking. It is well to be out of doors whenever possible.

May I also warn against faulty posture when standing or sitting? Bear in mind that the slouchy position is detrimental to health. It is all too frequently the underlying cause of indigestion, headache, backache, loss of appetite and constipation. Erect position and proper posture must never be overlooked. These have much to do in keeping the muscles toned up and the mind alert and active.

Though sports and games are of value, they are not available to everyone. It is well to remember, too, that strenuous sport should not be indulged in unless approved by your physician. At no time should exercise be done that results in excessive fatigue and weariness. Are and physical health should always be considered and the amount and form of exercise regulated accordingly.

ARTHUR
SHUMWAY

"Let you know so that if one of these days you found out anything that might incriminate me you'd remember to make a report on me in advance because it's a little hard for people to drop in on me unexpectedly any more. Well, goodbye Ryan. Sorry to have bothered you."
 "You haven't bothered me," Pete offered.
 "Sorry, anyway," Harrow said.
 And Kay heard the two men went to the front door, heard the screen open and close again.
 She had waited long enough; too long, perhaps. So she ran down the alley, climbed into her cab and ordered the driver to hurry across the river. Leaving the cab, she went into two Beach street variety stores and made a few small purchases, then returned to the yacht with the packages under her arm.
 Harrow was there when she went aboard. "Shopping?" he asked.
 "Just a few things I'll need on the cruise."
 That evening, after dinner, Harrow asked her.
 "How well do you like this Pete Ryan?"
 "Pete? Why, I don't know. What makes you ask that?"
 "Because I'm having him watched and he might accidentally find himself in jail."
 "Why, what has he done?"
 "Certainly wasn't the man you shot at the other night."
 "I wouldn't be so sure. One way or the other, But I've been thinking it over and I have a feeling that the cruise might be happier at sea if we took all possible precautions. That's just one."
 "But if he hasn't done anything how could he be put in jail?"
 Harrow smiled as if she were a child. "Everybody who finds him self in jail for a little while has to do something—necessarily. It's just possible that he might be on some charge until after we leave."
 "But that's underhand."
 "A lot of things are underhand in this world. Kay, don't forget that. If your Mr. Ryan should choose to go back to New Orleans at once that would be another thing. But, frankly, I'm tired of being annoyed, and if he has anything to do with it, getting him out of the way a few days would be worth the trouble and the wound to one's conscience."
 Kay found it impossible to conceal her dislike. And Harrow noticed it.

Tonight's Film

"EVELYN PRENTICE," with the popular stars of one of 1934's ten best, "The Thin Man"—William Powell and Myrna Loy—is the State theater's feature this evening. The charming Miss Loy and Powell have played in three pictures, the two mentioned and "Manhattan Melodrama," and are considered the screen's most popular "married couple." Perhaps it is their very naturalness, their lack of any artificiality, that brings them the deserved popularity. But whatever it is, their names mean a film will be satisfactory entertainment. It will be hard to forget some of the scenes they played so brilliantly in "The Thin Man."

In the case of the former film they were starred in what was considered the year's best mystery story

Salem Hi Basketeers Beat Alumni Squad By Score Of 27-21

Cope, McCloskey and Pukalski Get Valuable Points; Kaercher Leads Former Quakers; Reserves Lose To Fairfield

By RAY L. DEAN, News Sports Editor.

Flashing an offensive that made the game the most exciting played so far this season by the Salem High Quakers, Coach Herb Brown's basketeers tore down the defensive wall of the Alumni quintet, composed of former Salem lettermen, and came home with a 27 to 21 victory here Saturday night.

Led by Cope, forward threat, and Charles McCloskey, clever Quaker guard, the Salem High team, faltering only in the second period when they scored only three points against six for the Alumni, wrapped up a Christmas bundle of points in the last half that was extremely gratifying to Coach Brown. It marked the fourth consecutive victory of the season for the Quakers.

The Alumni by no means presented an average squad to handle and caused Salem to apply plenty of pressure in order to win the game. The majority of Alumni squad was composed of now Class A basketball aces who themselves were Salem High stars several years ago.

The Alumni boasted Wilms, now Mount Union center flash; Scullion, Culler, Catlos and P. Siding, who graduated from Salem High two years ago; Early, lanky center, who left the Quaker sports field three years ago; Johnny Pukalski and Whitey Kaercher, Quaker athletes of last year.

Proof of the game's excitement and keen rivalry may be learned from the opening quarter score, which ended 7-7. After the 6 to 3 gain by the Alumni in the second period, the varsity flippers pushed in six points ahead of two for the Alumni after intermission. The Quakers sewed up the game in the final canto by recording 11 points, five better than the Alumni record that time.

Brown started Zelle and Mullins at forwards, Palmer at center, and Beck and McCloskey at the guards. Cope was sent in to replace Zelle, and came around with his usual achievements. Eddie Pukalski proved a valuable addition to the quintet in the closing periods when he really started the closing spree that capped the game. Two field goals and a free throw gave him five points of the 11 scored in the final frame.

Kaercher captured scoring honors for the Alumni with eight points, made on three field goals and two fouls.

The start of the game showed that Salem had a tough opponent to overcome. Zelle and McCloskey had made good two free throws when Catlos pushed two foul shots through the hoop. Between those, however, Palmer recorded the first field goal of the game. Foul shots were numerous throughout the contest. Wilms left in the third period when four personals had been called against him. He was replaced by Johnny Pukalski.

Alumni Throws Scare

Players for the Alumni caused had come to a 13 to 10 lead when both quintets left for the dressing room at the half, and at that time, it did look bad for Salem High.

Intermission proved the turning point and the red and black fought with determined skill in the ensuing quarter to pass the Alumni core of 15 by one point. The Alumni didn't seem comparable to the form they had displayed at the opening and when the fourth and final period opened the Salem cagers piled up 11 points on a consistent offensive drive. The Alumni again featuring Kaercher, recorded 11 points, made on three field goals and a free throw.

Cope, back at the end of the third period started Coach Brown's boys on their winning spree in the erid game.

Kaercher Leads Alumni

While Kaercher took Alumni scoring honors, Catlos, on one field goal and three foul throws, tallied five, and J. Pukalski, four points on two baskets. Cope's eight points for the Quakers were made via three buckets and two free tosses. McCloskey tossed two long ones, and three foul shots for seven points.

In the preliminary, the Salem Reserves just couldn't get going against Fairfield and lost a 28-19 decision. A continual stream of Quaker substitutions even did not help matters.

Fairfield Drops Reserves

Fairfield took the lead at the start when Hoffacre, Gorby and Carlson scored in succession for eight points. Hoffacre got two, Haynes made the first bucket for Salem, followed by another by Bagle. The first period ended with Fairfield ahead, 8-5. The visitors continued their drive and piled up 19 more points to six for Salem in the second quarter.

Both quintets grew weary in the last half. Therefore, the Quaker youngsters were unable to slow down Fairfield.

Ohio Basketball In Brief

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24.—It's holiday time for the college basketball layers, too.

The week is almost devoid of basketball. Ohio State's Big Ten hopefuls all get together Wednesday for a practice session and then travel to Philadelphia, where they oppose Temple Friday night. Loyola of Chicago will appear at Cincinnati the next night.

The Burks go on to play Mary and next Saturday night. The only other scheduled Ohio college game rings Drake to Western Reserve Saturday night.

Cincinnati will see two games next Sunday night, as the Bucks return to Ohio to play Xavier and Vanderlin invades the Queen City to meet Cincinnati.

Bobcats Barnstorming

Ohio university, which has totaled 39 points for an average of 42 per game thus far this season, starts out in a barnstorming tour next Monday night which brings the Bobcats successfully up against Zanesville, Ioshoceton, the Ohio School of Htropy and the Akron Goodmans.

The Cats will open their Buckeye association warfare against Miami on 12 at Oxford.

At Cleveland Saturday night Fern College defeated John Carroll, 36 to 34, and Case defeated Hiram, 40 to 31. Ohio Wesleyan defeated Baldwin-Wallace, 33 to 31, at Berea. Toledo St. John's bowed to Detroit, 25 to 23, in a rally last falling short.

BAER TO FIGHT KING LEVINSKY

Champ Expects to Send King to Showers Early Friday Night

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Max Baer, in person, pumps some extra life into the national boxing industry this week.

The gay champion fights a four-round bout with King Levinsky, Chicago's rough and tumble clown, as the feature of an all-star card at the Chicago stadium Friday night.

It is not an exhibition and Baer's title will be at stake. He and Levinsky have tangled twice before with neither able to inflict much damage in 10 rounds at Chicago or 20 at Reno. Baer insists he'll send the King to the showers early this time. The usually talkative Levinsky is saying nothing, an ominous sign perhaps. Max's younger and bigger brother, Buddy, is slated for a four-rounder with Gene Stanton on the same card.

Otherwise a heavyweight match between Johnny Risko, Cleveland veteran, and Charley Reizoff of Duluth, at Minneapolis, Friday night, is the only other important bout on the week's card.

OPPORTUNITIES

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified adv. columns.

Kid Santa Comes Through Again

By order of the cartoonists' union, every pencil pusher in the land must come across today with a picture depicting Santa Claus Christmas trees, and all that, thus conveying the spirit of holiday cheer while at the same time avoiding the necessity of thinking up an idea.

This explains the above cartoon, and if you don't like it, it's your own fault for not getting into the Christmas spirit.

The old gag for a story on Christmas is to list the various things which the sport fans and sport celebrities would like Santa Claus to bring them. Far be it from me to depart from this custom, so you read further at your own peril.

Of course Max Bear would like nothing better from Santa than a colorful heavyweight contender who would draw something besides flies in a title bout. At that, Max would probably rather have a long-term movie contract than anything pertaining to the vulgar leather-throating profession.

Fight fans who have been crying for some sensational punchers to come along and bring about a fistie revival may find at least one answer to their prayers in the person of Paul Pirone, the clouting Cleveland middleweight who flattened Mickey Walker and who has run up a long string of K. O. victories. If Santa could dig up a few more guys who can belt like Master Pirone, the fight game would snap out of the doldrums in a hurry.

At this writing, Babe Ruth is still waiting for the jolly old gent with the white whiskers to leave a managerial job in his ample stocking. That would be a Christmas present that the fans would appreciate as much as the Babe's dizzy Dean, who is slated to be in the funny papers next year, is such a lucky guy that he doesn't need to ask Santa Claus for anything.

He has already signed a fat contract for 1935 and with all the dough he is due to make on the side, Diz will be the highest paid piece of diamond bric-a-brac in the world.

Here's wishing All of Youse a Very Merry Christmas.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Approximately 1,500,000 persons—the greatest attendance in recent years—saw America's ace automobile racing drivers in some 160 speed battles in 1934.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association, said the estimate covered the first 10 months and that the total would be increased by the late races of the winter season in California.

As usual, the 500-mile international sweepstakes on the historic Indianapolis motor speedway last May 30 attracted the largest crowd. Some 150,000 saw Bill Cummings ride to victory.

The greatest interest in any road race of the year was seen in the one at Mines airport, Los Angeles, in February, when 75,000 attended the year's first stock car event.

The largest county fair crowd—90,000—attended the races at Brockton, Mass., in September.

M'SPADEN COPS PASADENA OPEN

Accuracy of 26-Year-Old Kansan Brings Him $1,000 Prize

(By Associated Press)

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 24.—Because he discovered clubs in his golf bags more valuable than his driver, Harold McSpaden was one thousand dollars wealthier today.

He won that much money yesterday through a fine display of iron shots in 72 holes of play in the seventh annual Pasadena open golf tournament. The sturdy 26-year-old Kansan City, Kan., professional Young, f.

put together cards of 70-67-71-73 for a 281 total, five strokes better than his closest rivals and three blows to the good over par.

"I'm no longer trying for those booming drives I used to get," said the Kansan. "I found out a year ago it was getting me no place. Accuracy is my motto now instead of distance. And I find my irons also are working better."

STANFORD ENDS GRID PRACTICE

Squad Moves South For Rose Bowl Game With Alabama

(By Associated Press)

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 24.—Stanford's football squad splits up today after a final practice here for the move south to meet Alabama in Pasadena's Rose Bowl New Year's day.

Seventeen members of the squad, most of whom live in Southern California, leave tonight. The remainder of the squad will depart Wednesday.

The return of Jack Brown, reserve tackle, from the sick list, and favorable reports concerning the crippled stars, Fullback Bobby Grayson and Ends Jim Moscrip and Keith Topping, brought cheer to Stanford's followers.

Grayson's injured ribs were showing continued improvement and he was declared ready to throw passes again, though he refrained from doing so on coach's orders. Moscrip and Topping are recovering from wrenched knees.

Just Oddities

CHICAGO—The man who pays his way into boxing entertainments, to use King Levinsky's own quaint way of putting it, is wondering whether Max Baer and the Kinfish will "fight an exhibition or exhibition a fight." Friday night in the Chicago stadium.

A summing up of the evidence indicates it will be a little of both, depending on whose viewpoint is used.

The promoters, Nate Lewis and Jim Mullen, say their four-round meeting will be an exhibition.

George Getz, a member of the Illinois State Athletic commission, agrees—in part. Levinsky says it will be a fight. The world champion asks what difference it makes anyway—he will "take good care of Mr. Levinsky."

At the opening of this Christmas season, thousands of boys and girls who have caught the germs of tuberculosis need your help. Buy Christmas Seals.

Fourth Streets Edge Out Reilly In School Series

An early lead saved the Fourth Streets from a defeat by the Reilly school basketeers in the Memorial building Saturday morning. Reilly outplayed the Streets in the last half, only to lose 7 to 5.

In other grade school games played Saturday, St. Paul won over McKinley school, 12 to 4. As R. Scullion sank three baskets for six points as high scorer. Krepps, of the McKinley quintet, had him beaten, however, with eight points. Columbia school romped over Prospect, 22-1, as Armeni, center, flipped four through the mesh for eight points and Breault tallied three field goals for six points. Weber's free throw gave the losers their only point.
